

How secure is BenchSci?

Last Modified on 17/03/2021 9:07 am EDT

We know your data is sensitive, so security is a top priority

BenchSci employs first-class network security and data encryption to restrict access to your system to only approved networks. Data is at minimal risk of loss due to our high-redundancy data storage practices.

We also have a SOC2 (System and Organization Controls) Type II security level designation, provided through A-lign by A-SCEND and authenticated by Auth0. Any company that has achieved this rigorous designation has proven that its system is designed to effectively keep sensitive data from clients secure.