Free for academic users? What's the catch?

Don't worry - we're not spying on you or selling your data to advertisers. There's no hidden clause or surprise fees coming later. We've developed a great technology and we want as many researchers as possible to have access to it to increase the velocity of scientific discovery.

We're able to support our business by charging for-profit companies for enterprises licenses that offer the more advanced and custom features required in the industry setting.
