

Can I access figures from closed-access journals?

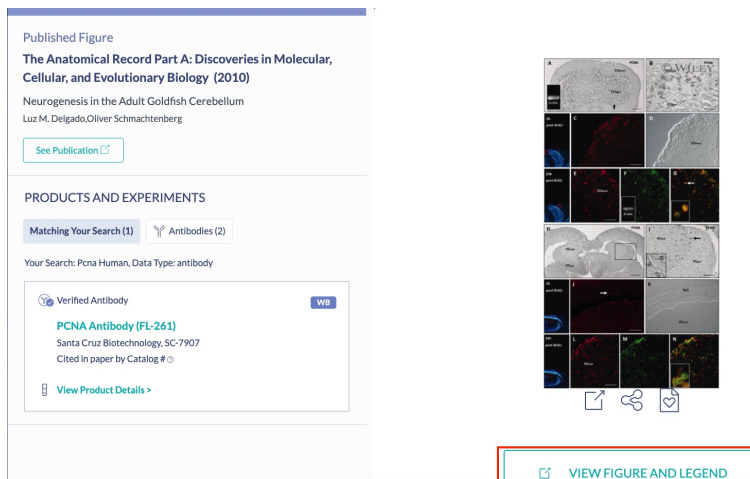

Last Modified on 03/02/2022 11:55 am EST

BenchSci analyzes content from both open- and closed-access journals

You can view the antibody that was used in each figure in our app, whether it's from an open- or closed-access journal. Figures from closed-access journals are marked with a key icon at the top of figure cards:

However, since closed-access content is subscription-based, as part of our publisher agreements, figure legends or the figures themselves are hidden. To view the full figure with legend, you can follow the “View Figure and Legend” icon to view the full text, like this:
